

In almost all departments of Al-Muthanna University's colleges, we see that the women's graduation rate is greater than that of men. The following figures show that in most colleges the average number of female graduates is always greater than the number of male graduates.

